

The Arlington Food Assistance Center (AFAC) is low on cereal, pasta, peanut butter and other food items. Please bring your donation to the meeting. BE GENEROUS!

Club members donated 65 pounds of food in October. Be generous with your contribution and let's see if we can improve with more food donations for the month of November. The weather is getting colder and the need has never been so great. Bring donations to Charlotte's.

DINNER CHEZ CHARLOTTE'S

The Arlington Area Zonta Club raises funds for Scholarships!

Reservations for Chez Charlotte's

Hopefully you have already let Charlotte know whether you (and guests) will attend.

There will be a brief business meeting for members during the event.

Board of Directors' meetings are held virtually. If you are interested in being on the distribution list, let Alina know (moandnoodle@me.com).

President's Corner

Dear Zontians,

The splendor of fall colors brings about those feeling of comfort foods, hot toddies, and making plans for Thanksgiving. This is the perfect time to reflect on the Zonta principles of advocacy and service. There is no better way to give thanks than by giving back to our fellow women who need our support. I wish I could say that the list of organizations needing our assistance is growing shorter; unfortunately that is not the case. At our last business meeting, we were called to action to bring attention upon the Arlington leadership on the inefficiencies of the sexual assault hot line. Janie DiSalvo reminded us to bring food donations to Chez Charlotte's this weekend for the Arlington Food Assistance Center. There are so many people in need. So our Zonta Club of Arlington is doing that which is in our power to do and we celebrate when we can, as we weave our service into meaningful community activities.

At Chez Charlotte's, we will meet our Jane Klausman winner and this is a cause to celebrate. Once again you will meet another worthy recipient of this great award. We will also have those who participated in the October 25, 2013 Project Peace hands-on project, share their experience in the various capacities served. All this, while we enjoy the wonderful generosity and hospitality of Chez Charlotte. This fundraising activity is a staple in our club's tradition.

While we count our many blessings, we have to find comfort that, as Zontians, we recognize the right for all women to enjoy a peaceful and fruitful life. And we will continue to focus our efforts to the advancement of the status of women locally and worldwide.

Alina

KAREN BIBBINS

Karen with her Daughters

I grew up in Detroit, MI –attended Wayne State University for undergrad, in therapeutic recreation, after a couple of years I moved to State College, PA to attend Penn State for my Master’s degree in therapeutic recreation, I then took a position with the State of MD Dept. of Health and Mental Hygiene in Cumberland, MD. I then moved on to Brockport, NY where I taught at SUNY-College at Brockport, and attended University of Rochester for my doctorate degree in Higher Education, and raising two beautiful daughters- Karena and Krystle, while the girls were in college I moved back to Michigan and worked for a variety of health systems and taught part time at Eastern Michigan University, then University of Phoenix. In 2011 I moved to VA on my daughter’s insistence and taught at Longwood University in Farmville, VA as a Visiting Assistant Professor in therapeutic recreation. I then moved to Northern, VA and took a position in Long Term Care as Director of Recreation Therapy. I just recently accepted a position with Advance Health Solutions as a researcher and business relations associate. Additionally I have my graduate certification in Health Information Technology from George Washington University.

My interests include: traveling, writing, modern dance, activism, gourmet cooking, and spending time with my family.

I was inducted in Zonta Detroit I in May 2007, and I served on the Service Committee where we developed a pocket brochure with information for women to contact for help with abuse, and trafficking. We had it printed in eleven languages for this small area of Detroit called Hamtramck where there are over 77 different languages that are spoken in this area. The printing company we used is owned by minority women whose business was in Hamtramck therefore they were instrumental in getting the brochures out to the areas where women would likely to get them.

The other project I worked on was sponsoring the educational DVD “Love is not a Black Eye” partnering with the Vanguard Community Development Center in Detroit, we also partnered with the Soroptamist Club of Grosse Pointe, MI and sponsored a panel presentation and discussion on Human Trafficking in Michigan. I also served as recording secretary and was on the Board of Directors.

WELCOME NEW MEMBERS KAREN BIBBINS & LAUREN NAKAMOTO

Karen and Laurie are welcomed by Margo Sheridan (Member & District 3 Lt. Governor) and Club President, Alina Doreste-Johnson.

Nancy R and soon to be member Anne Oller

ZONTA CLUB OF ARLINGTON

MINUTES OF MEETING October 23, 2013

@ Kora Restaurant, Crystal City

ATTENDEES: Alina Doreste, Nancy Ramsay, Karen Albert, Margo Sheridan, Marty Ditmeyer, Ann McGee, Virginia McGee, Betsy Reilly, and Janie DiSalvo, Charlotte Floyd, Mary Walker, Laura Nakamoto, Karen Bibbens, Jan Witt and guests Anne Oller and Jo Johnson.

Opening: Alina called the meeting to order at 7:00 pm.

INDUCTION: Margo Sheridan conducted the induction ceremony for our new members, Laura Nakamoto and Karen Bibbens. The club is very happy to welcome them.

SPEAKER: Jo Johnson from Project Peace spoke to us about the issues facing those needing assistance in Arlington. The current Hotline is broken and on the weekends it takes calls for 25 Virginia jurisdictions. People are often sent to the wrong jurisdiction for assistance. There are only 7 or 8 volunteers to accompany victims. She related many stories of women in crisis unable to reach help. The County moves when they hear a need in the community. Our Zonta club could provide a good service by making visits to the County to advocate for better services.

MINUTES: Alina asked for changes or corrections to the minutes. None were identified. Motion to accept minutes by: Mary Walker; Second by: Margo Sheridan; All – Aye.

TREASURER'S REPORT: Margo is still in the process of finalizing the assumption of the Treasurer position and will present a report for the record at the next meeting

Other Items:

5013C Status: Virginia McGee spoke with an IRS agent after a 1 ½ hour wait. This person is putting our application in the queue and will contact Virginia.

Dropbox: Marty will make sure new members have access to our Dropbox.

Zonta Says No Bracelets: Margo was able to obtain bracelets for all at the meeting. The group voted to purchase sufficient numbers of these to stuff in the Girl on the Run Packets contingent upon Janie 's conversation with Girls on the Run.

White House Ornaments: Ellie ordered and received 600 White House ornaments and will order another 100 to distribute at Chez Charlotte.

Chez Charlotte: Charlotte passed around a sign-up sheet for those attending Chez Charlotte on November 16.

The meeting adjourned at 9:15.

Minutes Submitted by:

Nancy Ramsay for Virginia Nickich

WHITE HOUSE CHRISTMAS ORNAMENTS

If you need more ornaments to sell, let Ellie Karo know how many you want--she will be bringing some to Chez Charlotte on Saturday, November 16th.

Arlington's Out of School Time Council sponsored a free conference - "Building Assets, Building a Caring Community" on October 26 at Kenmore Middle School in Arlington.

The Out Of School Time (OST) Council is a committee under the Partnership for Children, Youth, and Families. The OST Council was commissioned in 2012 by the County and School Boards with the mission to improve the delivery of out-of-school-time services for children. After a successfully training 120 after-school program staff in a similar conference in October 2011, the Council decided to offer the learning opportunity to the wider community, inviting coaches and parents as well.

Four members of the club assisted with the event: Nancy Ramsay, Barbara Kirkland and Virginia McGee assisted with registration. Barbara & Virginia worked at the "general attendees" tables and registered about 170 people. Nancy was the key registrar at the presenters table.

Jo Johnson of the club gave a presentation called Wiggle Room: Creating space to grow and change staff. Wiggle Room weaves covered Developmental Assetsof work with youth: Supportive relationships with adults, Safety, Adult role models, Positive peer influence, Constructive use of time, Positive values (caring, honesty, integrity and responsibility for one's behavior), and Positive identity (personal power, self-esteem, sense of purpose).

“Millions of women and girls around the world are assaulted, beaten, raped, mutilated or even murdered in what constitutes appalling violations of their human rights. [...] We must fundamentally challenge the culture of discrimination that allows violence to continue. On this International Day, I call on all governments to make good on their pledges to end all forms of violence against women and girls in all parts of the world, and I urge all people to support this important goal.”

Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon

Message for the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women
25 November 2012

By resolution 54/134 of 17 December 1999, the United Nations General Assembly designated 25 November as the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, and invited governments, international organizations and NGOs to organize activities designed to raise public awareness of the problem on that day. Women’s activists have marked 25 November as a day against violence since 1981. This date came from the brutal assassination in 1960, of the three Mirabal sisters, political activists in the Dominican Republic, on orders of Dominican ruler Rafael Trujillo (1930-1961).

On 20 December 1993 the General Assembly, by resolution 48/104, adopted the Declaration on the Elimination of Violence against Women.

By the International Public Relations and Communications Committee

Visit the Zonta Says NO website at <http://zontasaysno.com/> for inspiration and ideas.

The international 16 Days of Activism against Gender Violence Campaign is right around the corner (25 November–10 December) and so too is Phase Two of the Zonta Says NO campaign to end violence against women and girls, which is designed to complement the 16 Days Campaign. Phase Two will bring together the actions of Zonta districts and clubs from around the world to illustrate the collective commitment of Zonta's nearly 30,000 members in 64 countries to taking a unified stand against gender violence. There's still time for your district or club to make a plan, take action and Say NO!

As your actions unfold, make sure you keep all your members informed and involved. Reach out to community leaders, politicians and the media to get the word out that your club is working to end violence against women and girls in your local community and that you are part of a larger global effort to end violence against women and girls worldwide. The tools section on zontasaysno.com will offer facts and pieces of copy you can work with when you draft your local communication so you don't have to do this research on your own.

EVERY ACTION COUNTS!

Any action, big or small, taken by a Zonta district, club or individual member to say no to violence against women and girls, counts as participation in the campaign, provided the action also incorporates the Zonta Says NO campaign logo.

As you work with local politicians, high ranking officials in your country, CEOs/board members of major corporations or other high profile individuals in your communities, ask them for a quote in support of the campaign which can be used in your printed materials or on your club or district website. Send the quotes along with their photos if possible to pr@zonta.org and you may also see it listed on the Zonta Says NO website with quotes from other campaign supporters. If this makes sense, you may also join forces with like-minded organizations, but before you enter a collaboration of this kind, please consult our guidelines in the tools section.

Here are some ideas for actions:

- Take an existing project that focuses on violence against women and girls and brand the project with the Zonta Says NO logo, color and images.
- Purchase Zonta Says NO ribbons and wristbands from the Zonta Store and distribute them to club members, district conference attendees, Z and Golden Z club members, guest speakers and participants at club-sponsored community events.
- Wear the ribbons or wristbands on 25 November—International Day for the Elimination of All Forms of Violence against Women—and throughout the 16 Days of Activism against Gender Violence.
- Gather data on violence against women (VAW) in your local community and prepare a public exhibit to illustrate the local impact of VAW.
- Make a donation to a local facility to support victims of violence or to prevent violence against women. Don't forget to display campaign items when you hand over the check.
- Organize a panel discussion and invite experts on the subject to participate.
- Invite other like minded organizations to participate in your project or event.
- If these ideas don't suit your club, just borrow an idea.

If your club sponsors a Z or Golden Z club, involve the students in your campaign activity. Invite them to join you in the planning and implementation, and ask them to reach out to their campus newspapers for additional media coverage. Invite also current and past recipients of your club's education programs, service and fundraising—use all of your networks to highlight our call that violence against women is not okay.

SHARE YOUR STORY!

Take photos of your Zonta Says NO action with the Zonta Says NO logo clearly visible. Post these photos with a brief description of your action on your club and district websites and social media pages. Finally, join your fellow Zontians around the world in saying no to violence against women and girls by submitting your story and photos to the Zonta Says NO website. And: watch out for more possibilities this website might offer to advocate on and around November 25.

Together, let's show that Zontians are committed to ending violence against women and girls in our own communities and around the world!

HUNGER FACTS

Food_insecurity-coverARLINGTON FOOD INSECURITY STUDY 2012-2013

In 2012, the nonprofit Arlington Food Assistance Center (AFAC) partnered with Virginia Tech’s Center for Survey Research (CSR) and Center for Public Administration and Policy (CPAP) to conduct a food insecurity study. Despite being one of the wealthiest counties in the nation, food insecurity affects a great many Arlington County residents. Food insecurity is measured by limited or uncertain access to food, reduced food intake, and disrupted eating patterns.

According to this study, slightly more than 4 in 10 Arlington residents in the $60,000 and under income group are experiencing food insecurity. With roughly 75,000 Arlington residents in this income category, this suggests as many as 42 percent or 31,500 of these individuals could experience food insecurity in Arlington, VA. Learn more by reading the full report. (<http://www.afac.org/about/hunger-facts/>)

REMINDER

Please bring your food donation to AFAC to our regular meetings. Food is always in demand. Check the AFAC website for current needs. Items such as low sodium cereals, tuna packed in water, cooking oil in plastic bottles, and whole wheat past are in demand.

MILLENNIUM DEVELOPMENT GOALS OF THE UNITED NATIONS

Women’s Empowerment and the Post-2015 Development Agenda

The Millennium Development Goals, set to be achieved by 2015, were agreed upon in 2000 by all 189 member states of the United Nations. These eight international development goals are:

1. Eradicate extreme poverty and hunger
2. Achieve universal primary education
3. Promote gender equality and empower women
4. Reduce child mortality
5. Improve maternal health
6. Combat HIV/AIDS, malaria and other diseases
7. Ensure environmental sustainability
8. Develop a global partnership for development

16 DAYS OF ACTIVISM

On 25 November 2013 Zonta International will take part in the “16 Days of Activism” –along with the UN international campaign. The 16 Days Campaign has been used as an organizing strategy by individuals and groups around the world to call for the elimination of all forms of violence against women by:

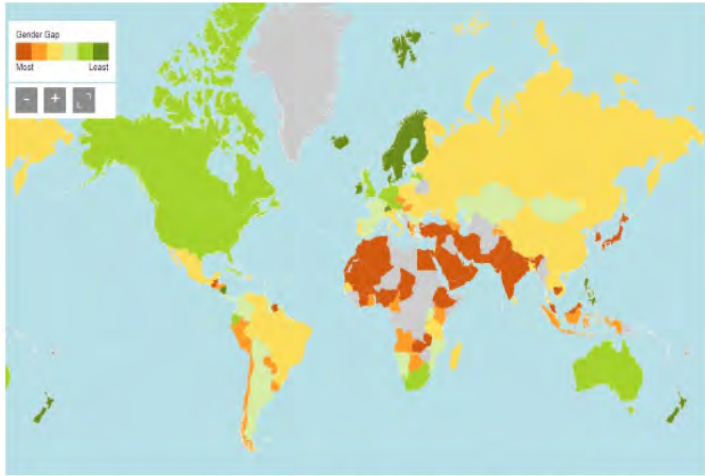

- Raising awareness about gender-based violence as a human rights issue at the local, national, regional and international levels
- Strengthening local work around violence against women
- Establishing a clear link between local and international work to end violence against women
- Providing a forum in which organizers can develop and share new and effective strategies
- Demonstrating the solidarity of women around the world organizing against violence against women
- Creating tools to pressure governments to implement promises made to eliminate violence against women

Many Zonta clubs are already planning activities that will occur within the “16 Days of Activism.” More information on how to share these activities via social media and Zonta International’s website will be available soon.

7 ridiculous restrictions on women's rights around the world

Thanks to Anne McGee for this article: <http://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/worldviews/wp/2013/10/27/7-ridiculous-restrictions-on-womens-rights-around-the-world/>
by Caitlin Dewey

The World Economic Forum's 2013 gender gap index. Countries in red and orange have the largest disparities between men and women. (WEF)

With Saudi Arabian women behind the wheel since Saturday to protest their country's refusal to grant driver's licenses to women, they're challenging not only long-standing restriction, but also a the larger system of Saudi Arabian gender-based laws, some of the harshest in the world.

According to one measurement, though, there are actually several countries that rank lower on women's rights than Saudi Arabia. The World Economic Forum, which publishes the preeminent ranking on gender gap issues, ranked Saudi Arabia 10th from the bottom in its 2013 report -- ahead of Mali, Morocco, Iran, Cote d'Ivoire, Mauritania, Syria, Chad, Pakistan and Yemen. Women's rights abuses are by no means limited to North Africa, West Africa or the Middle East, though that's where we tend to hear such stories most frequently.

"A lot of the most severe stuff comes out of legal or de facto guardianship systems," said Rothna Begum, a researcher who tracks women's rights in the Middle East and North Africa for the advocacy group Human Rights Watch.

But she adds that, especially in Saudi Arabia, "things are modernizing."

Here are nine other remarkable legal restrictions against women, from Asia to Latin America:

1. India (some parts): Road safety rules don't apply to women. In some states of India, women are exempted from safety rules that mandate motorcycle passengers wear helmets -- an exemption that kills or injures thousands each year. Women's rights advocates have argued the exemption springs from a culture-wide devaluation of women's lives. Supporters of the ban say they're just trying to preserve women's carefully styled hair and make-up -- which isn't exactly a feminist response.

2. Yemen: A woman is considered only half a witness. That's the policy on legal testimony in Yemen, where a woman is not, to quote a 2005 Freedom House report, "recognized as a full person before the court." In general, a single woman's testimony isn't taken seriously unless it's backed by a man's testimony or concerns a place or situation where a man would not be. And women can't testify at all in cases of adultery, libel, theft or sodomy.
3. Saudi Arabia and Vatican City: Women can't vote... still. This is amazingly the case in Saudi Arabia, though a royal decree, issued in 2011, will let women vote in Saudi elections in 2015. Vatican City is the only other country that allows men, but not women, to vote.
4. Ecuador: Abortion is illegal, unless you're an "idiot." Begum says this is the policy in Ecuador, where abortions have long been outlawed for everyone but "idiots" and the "demented." Politicians are considering a policy with the more politely worded term "mentally ill," but that won't change abortion's legal status in Ecuador -- or, more importantly, the fact that the law is frequently used to criminalize miscarriages.
5. Saudi Arabia and Morocco: Rape victims can be charged with crimes. Many, many countries fail to protect the victims of rape, but some go a step further -- punishing women for leaving the house without a male companion, for being alone with an unrelated man, or for getting pregnant afterwards. The most infamous case may be Saudi Arabia's "Qatif girl," but a recent suicide in Morocco also made headlines -- 16-year-old Amina Filali killed herself after a judge forced her to marry her alleged rapist, in keeping with a policy that invalidates statutory rape charges if the parties marry.
6. Yemen: Women can't leave the house without their husbands' permission. Yemen, where this law remains in force, does allow for a few emergency exceptions, Begum says: if the woman must rush out to care for her ailing parents, for instance.
7. Saudi Arabia: Women can't drive. Read more about the ban and how women are challenging it here.

The good news? According to the World Economic Forum's most recent gender gap report, equality has made "modest" gains in the Middle East. And Begum, of Human Rights Watch, says there's lots of agitation for more change.

"Women in Saudi Arabia are highly educated and qualified," she said. "They don't want to be left in the dark."

FEMINIST MAJORITY

Working for Women's Equality from the Streets to the Legislature

Thanks to Jan Witt for this information. Website: <http://feministmajority.org/equal-rights-amendment/>

EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT

Goal: A United States Constitutional Guarantee of Equality for Women

The Equal Rights Amendment states: Section 1. Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex. Section 2. The Congress shall have the power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article. Section 3. This amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification.

Why

Women are not treated equally under the Law in the U.S. Discrimination continues in all aspects of life from Employment, Education, Social Security, Pensions, Insurance, to Health Care. The ERA would change the burden of proof in sex discrimination cases to a higher level of scrutiny under the law. A level of strict scrutiny in all sex discrimination cases would mean that those fighting sex discrimination would no longer have to prove discrimination, but instead those who discriminate would have to prove that they did not violate the Constitution. This would have major impact on a wide range of sex discrimination cases.

Status

The ERA was originally proposed in 1923 to insure women's equality as the next step after the Constitutional amendment guaranteeing the women's right to vote. It was passed by Congress in 1972 and ratified by 35 states. 38 states are necessary for enactment as an amendment to the Constitution. There was a major campaign for ratification involving massive numbers of supporters who were educated and politicized through the process. Many individual pieces of legislation and gains were achieved in the wake of these efforts. After an extension of the deadline, the time limit for ratification expired in 1982. It is currently re-introduced in the U.S. Congress in the House by Carolyn Maloney as H.J.Res. 69 and now has 183 co-sponsors and in the Senate by Robert Menendez with 15 co-sponsors. (link to co-sponsors) <http://www.opencongress.org> A newly introduced ERA will need to be passed by 2/3 of Congress and then sent to the states for ¾ or 38 of the states to ratify it to become part of the Constitution.

Alternative Strategy

On Mar. 8, 2011, Rep. Tammy Baldwin (D-WI) introduced H.J.Res. 47, which would remove the ERA's ratification deadline and make it part of the Constitution when three more states ratify. The Senate companion bill, S.J.Res. 39, was introduced on Mar. 22, 2012 by Sen. Benjamin Cardin (D-MD). Supporters in several of the unratified states are working for passage of the ERA in three of the remaining 15 states. If this strategy is successful, it would probably face a court challenge that would go to the U.S. Supreme Court to determine the validity of the ratification of the amendment.

Alternative Language

Wording has been sought to clarify the meaning of the Amendment and make it more simple, clear, concise, inclusive, and effective. Some have looked at the original language penned by Alice Paul. Another example is: "Women and men shall have equality of rights, privileges and liberties throughout the U.S. and in every place and entity subject to its jurisdiction."
